Emailed Eclipse and their response was fantastic from the beginning. thank you Fiona. My issue was dealt with quickly and professionally. The technician thank you Reece arrived at the agreed time and was great. The problem was diagnosed very quickly, but with some complications given it was originally an American system. This is where the tech guy went above and beyond to help and for that I am very appreciative. I would highly recommend them because of their professionalism, timeliness and going that extra mile to support a customer. I cant recommend him more highly. Rhys enhanced the system and explained it to us in normal terms to the point where we can take full advantage of our security system. I also want to thank the support people at Eclipse who have been fantastic and everything can be done on time and with a high level of professionalism. To silence, press 5 and hold until you hear keypad beeping twice. Will then display type of fault, refer to your manual.

Note that silencing the codepad will not stop the beeping permanently. The beeping will return. As long as the initial cause of trouble remains the alarm keeps sounding until the fault is rectified. This fault is very common and can be caused by a low battery condition. This will be indicated by a light 1 in fault diagnosis mode. An alarm keypad beep can also occur due to the new NBN network regarding the disconnection of the old obsolete copper telephone network. Unexpected power outages may also cause the burglar alarm system codepad to start beeping. Fuse faults caused by a blown fuse may also start a beeping codepad We have the most experienced Alarm Technicians in the security industry. Our friendly licensed team provide service in Melbourne. We repair most faults to Solution security equipment whether recent, obsolete or new. Whatever your security needs Alarm Maintenance offers fast reliable security services. Refer to alarmmaintenance.com.au data sheets. Once fault type is identified. Codepad beeps twice Every time a new system fault is detected the FAULT indicator flashes and the codepad beeps every minute. Repeat, press 3 until you hear three beeps to turn strobe off.
